4 Implementation Scheme for the Deposit Insurance Premium System

As amended by Financial Supervisory Commission, Letter Chin-Kuan-Yin-Ho No. 10701191780 on December 18, 2018

1. The Implementation Scheme for the Deposit Insurance Premium System is conducted in accordance with stipulations of Paragraph 3 of Article 16 of the Deposit Insurance Act .
2. The deposit insurance premium for insured institutions shall be assessed as a differential premium calculated on the basis of risk indicators for covered deposits and as a flat premium for eligible deposits exceeding the coverage limit.
3. Risk indicators:
 - (1) The two risk indicators are the Capital Adequacy Ratio (CAR) and the Composite Score of the Risk-based Premium Rating System (CSRPRS).
 - (2) The CAR is based on the rate of the following dates that insured institutions report to the competent authority (for local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, it refers to the data reported by their parent banks to their own competent authority in their home countries) before the standard date for calculating the deposit insurance premium, which is June 30 or December 31 each year:
 - A. Domestic Banks: March 31 or September 30.
 - B. Local branches of foreign and Mainland Chinese banks: June 30 or December 31 (or the most recent reported data).
 - C. Credit Cooperatives: June 30 or December 31.
 - D. Credit Departments of Farmers' and Fishermen's Associations: June 30 or December 31.
 - (3) The standard dates used for calculating CSRPRS are determined as the end of the quarters before the standard dates for calculating deposit insurance premiums (June 30 and December 31). The score is produced from the data reported by insured institutions. However, if the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC), within half year before the standard dates for calculating deposit insurance premiums, receives an examination report of the insured institution with an examination standard date prior to March 31 or September 30 and the examination results are different from the financial data submitted by the insured institution, the insured institution should make adjustments based on the examination results. Accordingly, the CDIC should use the data after adjustments made by the insured institution, to generate CSRPRS and calculate the risk premium rate of the current payment period. If the examination standard date of the abovementioned examination report is after March 31 or September 30, the premium rate for the next payment period should be calculated based on the principle above.

- (4) In order to confirm the accuracy of insured institutions' reporting "risk indicators-related" documents, the CDIC may conduct inspections of insured institutions and recalculate the risk-based premium based on the inspected results to collect insurance premium.

4. Risk grading:

- (1) The CAR is divided into three risk grades:

- A. Domestic banks, local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, with a CAR of 12.50% and over; credit cooperatives with a CAR of 12.00% and over; credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations with a CAR of 10.00% and over.
- B. Domestic banks, local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, with a CAR of 10.50% to less than 12.50% ; credit cooperatives with a CAR of 8.00% to under 12.00%; credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations with a CAR of 8.00% to under 10.00%.
- C. Domestic banks, the local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, with a CAR of under 10.50% ; credit cooperatives, credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations with a CAR of under 8.00%.

For insured institutions whose minimum CAR is required higher by the competent authority, the risk grades are divided into three levels: a CAR of 12.5% and over; a CAR of under 12.5% to the required minimum CAR; and a CAR of under the required minimum CAR.

The CAR of banks refers to the ratio of equity capital to total risk-weighted assets. The CAR of credit cooperatives refers to the ratio of eligible equity capital to total risk-weighted assets. For local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, the CAR refers to the ratio of equity capital to total risk-weighted assets of the foreign and mainland Chinese banks. The CAR for credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations refers to the ratio of eligible net worth to total risk-weighted assets.

(2) The CSRPRS is divided into three risk grades:

- A. Composite scores of 65.0 and above
- B. Composite scores of 50.0 and above but less than 65.0
- C. Composite scores of under 50.0

5. Deposit insurance premiums:

- (1) For domestic banks and local branches of foreign and mainland Chinese banks, the five-grade differential premium rates for covered deposits under the coverage limit are 0.05%, 0.06%, 0.08%, 0.11%, and 0.15%, and the flat premium rate for eligible deposits in excess of the coverage limit is 0.005%.
- (2) For credit cooperatives, the five-grade differential premium rates for covered deposits under the coverage limit are 0.04%, 0.05%, 0.07%, 0.10%, and 0.14%, and the flat premium rate for eligible deposits in excess of the coverage limit is 0.005%.
- (3) For credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations, the five-grade differential premium rates for covered deposits under the coverage limit are 0.02%, 0.03%, 0.04%, 0.05%, and 0.06%, and the flat premium rate for eligible deposits in excess of the coverage limit is 0.0025%.

The tables of the differential premium grades are included in the Appendix.

6. Exceptions:

- (1) The calculation of the differential premium rates for insured institutions in the process of a merger or assumption (hereinafter referred to as "a merger"):

A. Period at the time of the merger:

The calculation of premium rates will be based on the risk indicators of each institution before the merger.

The "period at the time of the merger" refers to the period for calculation of the insurance premium during the standard date of the merger (January 1 to June 30 or July 1 to December 31).

B. Period after a merger:

- a. If there is no CSRPRS data available, the calculation of the premium rate is based on the CSRPRS of the surviving institution. The calculation of the differential premium rate of a newly incorporated institution is based on the higher CSRPRS of the original institutions before a merger.
 - b. If there is no data of the CAR available, the calculation of the premium rate is based on the CAR of the existing institution. The calculation of the premium rate of a newly incorporated institution is based on the higher CAR of the original institutions before a merger.
- (2) The differential premium rates for insured institutions that do not have CSRPRS data or CAR data available due to reorganization are based on the latest CSRPRS or CAR before the reorganization.
 - (3) Insured institutions that are newly established and do not yet have CSRPRS shall pay the Grade 3 differential premium rate. However, the Grade 4 differential premium rate shall be applied for credit departments of farmers' and fishermen's associations established under special permission by the central competent authority of the agricultural finance in accordance with the proviso of Subparagraph 2 of the Auditing Standards for Applications to Re-establish Credit Departments by Farmers' and Fishermen's Associations whose Credit Departments were Assumed by a Bank .
 - (4) The differential premium rate for government-owned insured institutions, excluding those institutions that subject to the lowest rate, shall be calculated as one grade lower than the rate for their risk group.
 - (5) The differential premium rates for insured institutions that accept deposits but do not make loans except for time deposit pledge or for the deposits required by law to be deposited in certain financial institutions; or for preferential interest deposits such as the deposits for civil servant and teacher pension fund, military retirement funds or Personnel Savings Division Comptroller EAU, M.N.D, shall be determined specially by the competent authority.
 - (6) Insured institutions shall pay the highest differential premium rate if they are under guidance, superintendence or conservatorship or their authorities are exercised by officers delegated by the competent authority or the central competent authority of the agricultural finance in accordance with the law.
 - (7) Bridge banks, which are set up in accordance with the Deposit Insurance Act , do not need to pay the insurance premium.

- (8) If an insured institution receives a warning notice of termination of the deposit insurance agreement by the CDIC in accordance with the Article 25 of the Deposit Insurance Act, the CDIC shall raise the premium rate of the institution by 0.01% to 0.05%.
7. The CDIC sends an individual written notification of the applicable premium rate to each insured institution. Insured institutions cannot publicly announce their CSRPRS. The CDIC may increase their differential premium rates for violators of this regulation by 0.01% for the current payment period.
8. If an insured institution does not pay its premium on time as stipulated under the CDIC regulations, the CDIC may increase the current differential premium rate of the institution by 0.01% for payment period.
9. If an insured intuition has a major financial or operational risk event between the standard dates for reporting data and the standard dates for calculating deposit insurance premiums, such that the risk indicators are unable to timely reflect operational risks, the CDIC may charge an additional premium of 0.01% to 0.04% for the current payment period depending on the degree of risk. However, the increased premium rate may not exceed the highest rate.
10. If an insured institution dishonestly reports data and files or conceals important financial and business information, such that the applied premium rate is affected, the institutions must pay the difference of the revised premiums after adjustments for the affected period. The CDIC may charge an additional premium of 0.01% to 0.04% for the current payment period depending on the level of severity.
11. Insured institutions that object to their differential premium rate are still required to pay the insurance premium on time. A written request for review of the premium rate may be submitted to the CDIC between the date of receiving notification of premium payment and the due date of the current premium payment period (January 31 or July 31, based on the postmark date). Only one such request is permitted per payment period.
12. This Implementation Scheme shall become effective after being approved by the competent authority, and the same applies when modifications take place. Point 3 Subparagraph 2 Item D of this implementation scheme shall take effect on January 1, 2020.

 - (2) Purchasing subordinated debts: In the case where the statutory capital adequacy ratio on the base date of the transaction of acquisition and assumption has not reached the legally-required standard and no one has purchased the subordinated debts issued, the acquiring institution shall within a period of one year submit an approval letter from the competent authority, guidelines for the issue and a repayment plan, and make a request to the CDIC to purchase the debt.
 - (3) Providing guarantees: When the circumstances in the above two subparagraphs occur, the acquiring institution shall submit relevant data to the CDIC to provide guarantees.

- ★ As amended (Point 12, 13) and approved by the Financial Supervisory Commission, Letter Chin-Kuan-Yin-Ho (3) No. 10200099180 on April 25, 2013

1. General Principles

1. These operating procedures are enacted pursuant to Paragraph 4 of Article 28 of the Deposit Insurance Act (hereinafter referred to as "the Act").
2. The Central Deposit Insurance Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the "CDIC") in fulfilling its insurance responsibilities regarding the payout to depositors pursuant to Subparagraph 1 or Subparagraph 2 of Paragraph 1 of Article 28 of the Act, shall handle such matters in accordance with these operating procedures.
3. When an insured institution is closed by the competent authority or the central competent authority of the agricultural finance, the CDIC, in the fulfillment of its insurance responsibilities pursuant to Subparagraph 1 or Subparagraph 2 of Paragraph 1 of Article 28 of the Act, shall request that the closed institution swiftly prepare appropriate electronic data files, accounting books and records, financial statements and other relevant information needed for handling the payout.

The insured institutions referred to in the previous Paragraph include financial institutions whose deposit insurance agreements have been terminated for not more than six months.

4. When handling set-off, the CDIC shall offset the claims of depositors on the closed insured institution according to the following order of liabilities:

- (1) Liabilities created by deposits pledged as collateral of the closed institution.
- (2) Liabilities reaching due or deemed to be due according to the applicable agreements, or fitting to be offset in accordance with other laws and regulations, apart from rules regarding set-off process stipulated in other laws or contracts, shall be offset in the following order. However, if the total liabilities of the depositors are smaller than the total outstanding deposits or there is doubt over whether the liabilities have matured, the set-off may be proceeded only after the amount has been affirmed by the receiver:
 - A. First offset the liabilities which the individual depositor is the main debtor, then offset liabilities based on jointly issued checks, and then offset liabilities that are jointly and severally guaranteed by the depositor.
 - B. For items above in the same status, first offset expenses, then offset interests, then offset principals, and then offset contractual penalties. When applying the set-off, priority should be given to unsecured liabilities. Where collateral is equally ranked, priority will be given to that with a lower interest rate. Where interest rates are the same, priority shall be given to that with a smaller amount. Where the amounts are the same, priority shall be given to that with a lower account number.

In respect of the set-off in the preceding Paragraph, the final business day of the closed insured institution shall be the standard date used for calculating the set-off. The CDIC shall use the electronic data files provided by the closed insured institution first to do the calculation. However, when the depositors or the related holders of the right have differences of opinion relating to the set-off, the matter shall be referred to the receiver, and the set-off shall be proceeded according to the notification of the receiver.

Regarding the liabilities defined in Subparagraph 1 of Paragraph 1, the set-off shall be applied to the interests and principals of the deposits pledged by the depositors and of the liabilities created by deposits pledged as collateral of the closed insured institution. As for the liabilities defined in Subparagraph 2 of the same Paragraph, the deposits shall offset the liabilities in the following order: ineligible deposits first and followed by eligible deposits. No matter eligible or ineligible deposits, the order to be followed is to offset the deposit interests first and followed by the principals. If several deposits belong to either eligible or ineligible deposit categories, priority will be given to that with a higher interest rate. Where interest rates are the same, priority shall be given to that with a smaller amount. Where the amounts are the same, priority shall be given to that with a lower account number.

No matter deposits or liabilities, if there are some that are denominated in foreign currency instead of New Taiwan dollars, they shall be calculated in New Taiwan dollars based on the exchange rate of the closed insured institution's final business day.

When proceeding set-off, the CDIC shall inform the depositors in written notice by using the mailing addresses for correspondence filed in the closed insured institution. When offsetting the deposit interests, the CDIC shall deduct the tax on interest income and other expenses regulated by law.

5. The amount of the CDIC to reimburse depositors of the closed insured institutions shall be the net amount of principal and interest of deposits after set-off in accordance with the preceding Point, which shall not exceed the deposit insurance coverage limit. However, in the case where the closed financial institution's deposit insurance agreement has already been terminated, the amount of the payment that the depositors shall receive shall be limited to the lowest balance of the outstanding eligible deposits at the end of each business day from the date of the termination of the agreement to the final business day.

Based on Article 5-1 of the Enforcement Regulations of the Act, each depositor, whose amount of the payout in the preceding Paragraph shall be recorded item by item based on each deposit of a depositor as a proportion of his or her total eligible deposits. The tax on interest income from the recorded deposits and other expenses regulated by law shall be deducted.

As for the employee pension deposit accounts opened by organizations, business entities, groups or insured institutions at closed insured institutions, if the account records are able to clearly distinguish the amount of each employee's pension deposits, and the closed insured institutions pay the deposit insurance premiums according to the distinguished accounts and are able to produce the account records separately, the pension deposit of such individual employee and other deposits thereof at the same insured institution shall be protected within the coverage limit respectively.

The amount of deposits in joint accounts owned by two or more individuals shall be calculated according to the deposit agreement signed by the joint individuals and the closed insured institution. For any individual without such an agreement, the deposits should be shared equally among joint depositors. The amount of payout should be calculated by aggregating the deposits of the said joint individuals and those in the accounts opened by each of them in his or her own name in the closed insured institution.

When the Central Deposit Insurance Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the "CDIC") pursuant to Paragraphs 1 and 2 of Article 41 of the Act serves as the receiver and handles the advance payments against claims filed by the depositors beyond the maximum insurance coverage limit and by non-deposit creditors (hereinafter referred to as ineligible claims), it shall handle them in accordance with these Regulations, and shall comply with the principles of safety and soundness.

Article 3

The CDIC shall after careful deliberation make advance payments in regard to the ineligible claims of creditors of closed insured institutions that comply with the following conditions:

1. The net realizable value of the assets of the closed insured institutions can be reasonably estimated, and it is likely to be converted into cash.

2. The estimated amount of the advance payments and the interest on them can be fully reimbursed by the estimate of the net realizable value of the assets in the previous Subparagraph.
3. The closed insured institutions have no severe embezzlements and fraudulence or other significant cases whose losses are difficult to determine.

The estimated period for which the interest referred to in Subparagraph 2 of the previous Paragraph is five years.

The amount of the advance payments to be handled by the CDIC is limited to 30% of the amount on the insurance special payout reserves. The funds that CDIC needs for its handling shall be obtained pursuant to Paragraphs 1 to 3 of Article 31 of the Act.

The funds that the CDIC needs pursuant to the Act in the fulfillment of its insurance responsibilities towards closed insured institutions shall be deducted from the outstanding amount on the insurance special payout reserves in the preceding Paragraph. Furthermore, the deduction also includes funds that it is likely to need should there be other insured institutions to the extent that, because they are critically undercapitalized or significantly undercapitalized and the period of their capital restoration is limited by the competent authority or for other measures, it is uncertain that the CDIC may fulfill its insurance responsibilities.

Article 4

When the CDIC handles advance payments in relation to the ineligible claims of the creditors on closed insured institutions, the formula for the estimated amount of advance payments will be as follows:

(The amount of the eligible deposit claims beyond the maximum coverage limit × Its anticipated recovery ratio of the liquidation proceeds + The amount of the ineligible deposit claims × Its anticipated recovery ratio of the liquidation proceeds) × The advance payments percentage.

The anticipated recovery ratio in the previous Paragraph is based on assets divided by each claim. When it exceeds 100%, it will then be calculated on the basis of 100%.

The value of the assets in the previous Paragraph are based on the anticipated net realizable value of the closed insured institutions remaining after deducting anticipated liquidation expenses, claims that have a higher priority of reimbursement, the collateralized claims of other creditors on the closed insured institutions, and other claims that shall be deducted. For each claim in the previous Paragraph, the total amount of the claims shall be calculated separately by distinguishing the sequence in which these advance payments claims are to be made.

The collateralized claims as referred to in the previous Paragraph refer to the amounts that creditors in respect of such collateral shall be reimbursed that lie within the scope of the value of the collateral on such claims.

The percentage paid in advance by the receiver to uninsured creditors shall be limited to 30% of the anticipated amount of the recovery.

For eligible deposit claims beyond the maximum coverage limit for which it is anticipated that the full amount cannot be recovered, advance payments shall not be made for other claims.

When calculating the value of the assets in Paragraph 3, the evaluation basis may refer to the information and amount of the anticipated loss from the CDIC's cash payouts.

Article 5

The scope of the CDIC's advance payments to uninsured claims of the creditors on closed insured institutions excludes the following claims:

1. Claims that the Court has ordered to be seized.
2. Claims that are eligibly within the scope of handling the set-off.
3. Claims that have already been mortgaged to a third party.
4. Claims where the creditor has already been served notice of bankruptcy with a bankruptcy trustee not yet being selected or in the event of depositor's death with the inheritance registration not yet being completed.
5. Claims where there is suspicion of illegal activities or a lawsuit has been filed.
6. Claims that are still in dispute.
7. Other claims that the CDIC deems to be inappropriate to make advance payments.

Article 6

The income from the liquidation of the assets of the closed insured institutions, apart from that retained for the interest on advance payments, as well as other anticipated expenses needed in the liquidation and amounts retained for claims that have a higher priority than advance payments, shall be recorded according to the sequence in which the advance payments claims are listed separately, and the aforesaid advance payments shall be reimbursed to the CDIC.

As for the interest on advance payments in the previous Paragraph, beginning from the day on which the CDIC's advance payments are appropriated to the receiver, the interest shall be calculated based on the CDIC's cost of funds on a floating rate basis.

The cost-of-funds rate in the previous Paragraph shall be calculated in accordance with the following methods:

1. From the CDIC's own funds: The average of the CDIC's one-year fixed and floating deposit rates with the Central Bank.
2. Accommodation obtained from the Central Bank or other financial institutions: The interest rate obtained on such funding.
3. Where both of the above two methods apply: The weighted average interest rate.

Article 7

When the CDIC handles advance payments, it shall on its Website and in the major daily newspapers that is circulated where the closed insured institution is located post an announcement for three days or more. It shall also publicly disclose such an announcement in the main entrance of the closed insured institution's head office and all branch locations.

The announcement referred to in the previous Paragraph shall clearly record the following matters:

1. The purpose and the creditors for making the advance payments, and the scope of the claims.
2. The method for calculating the amount of the advance payments.
3. The period, the location and the method for making the advance payments.
4. The CDIC may, pursuant to Article 38 of the Act, subrogate all rights of uninsured creditors against the closed insured institution in its own name.
5. Other relevant matters.

Article 8

When making advance payments, the CDIC shall, in accordance with the mailing addresses left by the uninsured creditors with the closed insured institution, notify them in writing of the following items:

1. The amount of the advance payments.
2. The claims that are not included in the advance payments.
3. The claims on the closed insured institutions, after the uninsured creditors receive the advance payments, are extinct within the scope of the amounts received.

To receive the amount of the advance payments, the uninsured creditor shall fill in the form for receipt of the advance payments with his or her own account number that he or she holds in other financial institutions. After signing or affixing his or her personal signature or seal to the form, he or she shall mail it to or take it directly to the place designated by the CDIC, so that the CDIC can handle the remittance.

If the uninsured creditors are unable to receive the advance payments in accordance with the approach referred to in the previous Paragraph or have differences of opinion over the items, and cannot help but deal with them over the counter, they shall provide their personal identity card, eligibility and original documentation of related rights certificate, and deal with the matter in person at a location designated by the CDIC. After the CDIC verifies that there are no errors or upon re-examination finds that there are no further disputes, the creditor shall fill in the forms for the receipt of advance payments, and shall designate an account number for remittance or apply for a non-endorsable, non-negotiable check made payable to himself or herself, in order to receive the advance payments. If there is still any difference of opinion against the result of the re-examination, the uninsured creditors may first apply for CDIC to make advance payments to those amounts where there are no disputes.

Article 9

When the CDIC handles advance payments, it shall on a regular basis compile detailed income and expenditure statements in relation to the advance payments.

Article 10

When the whole amount of the CDIC's advance payments and the interest thereon are reimbursed, the procedure of advance payments are completed. The same applies if the whole amount is not fully reimbursed, but the liquidation procedures have been completed.

When the proviso in the previous Paragraph applies, the CDIC shall handle this matter pursuant to Article 20 of the Act.

Article 11

After the CDIC has completed the advance payments, it shall submit a written report on handling of the situation to the competent authority, and shall retain such related documentation for at least ten years. If the closed insured institution is an agricultural financial institution, it shall as well submit the same report to the central competent authority of the agricultural finance.

Article 12

These Regulations shall become effective from the date of promulgation.
